Office of Recorder Shows Profit Under Scott's Management

Returns of 33.3 Per Cent. Are Cited in His Campaign for Re-nomination

The operation of the Lake county recorder's office at a profit of 33 1/3 percent has been the past three years' achievement of Howard L. Scott, candidate for the Republican nomination for re-election.

In his campaign for the nomination, Scott points out that under his administration thousands of records have passed through the recorder's office annually at a minimum cost to the individual, but with substantial revenue for public funds.

During 1943, Scott stated, recordings in Lake County totaled 15,032, with fees amounting to $25,843.88, and excess earnings reached $8,776.13.

The 1942 statement included 16,121 documents with an earned fee of $27,909.49 and a profit over and above cost of $10,453.73. Recordings for the previous year were 18,323, with fees of $30,978.29 and earnings of $8,792.63.

This record is not due to any "miracle," Scott points out, attributing it to a well-planned and expertly executed system inaugurated in the office in 1936.

Had become recorder in 1937, Scott said, the system includes a simplified form of the "priced" (buyer) and grantor (seller) method of tabulating and filing, resulting in 40 volumes of the tabulations for which 118 volumes would once have been required.

The use of photostatic copies, he said, helped reduce space, time, labor and expense requirements.

Mrs. Milton Johnson, who underwent a major operation at St. Theresa hospital several days ago, arrived home Wednesday at her home at Lake Catherine.

Two New Buses Will Supplement Antioch Lines

Lions Committee and Coach Co. President Announce Improvements

Assurance of improved bus transportation for Antioch, commencing April 17, was given this week through the co-operation of the Antioch Lions club and the American Coach company.

Two modern buses will be added, one each on the Chicago-Antioch and Waukegan-Antioch runs, it was announced following a conference of the Lions club transportation committee and A. R. Gerner, president of the American Coach company.

The bus to be put on the Chicago run will have a seating capacity of 30 persons and will make four round trips per day between Antioch and the Loop, with a running time of two hours. The first bus will leave Antioch at 6:45 a. m., arriving in the Chicago Loop at 8:45 a. m.

New Waukegan Schedule

A more modern bus than that which has been used up to date has been secured for the Waukegan run, and will also make four round trips per day. A new schedule on the Waukegan-Antioch service is to be announced in the near future.

President Gerner has given assurance on the part of the American Coach company that continuous service and modern equipment will be maintained during the coming season.

Members of the Lions transportation committee which has been instrumental in arranging for better bus facilities for this community include: Dan Boyer, chairman; H. A. Smith, H. J. Krueger, Ed. F. Vos, Maurice Reynolds, Paul Sheldon, and Edward C. Jacobs.

Garfield Leaf, coroner, is cited in his record.

Entrant in C. O. P. Race Has Served in County Offices for Over Decade

More than a decade of service in the "Lake County" (treasurer's office) has been the record of Garfield Leaf, a four-time treasurer and the other years as deputy treasurer under J. Bush Morse, Allen J. Nelson and the incumbent, Gustaf H. Fredrick.

Leaf states that his personal campaign will be "greatly curtailed" because of gasoline rationing, and that his appeal is being made mainly through the columns of the news-papers.

Personally popular and a strong vote-getter, Leaf has by his entrance into the county coroner race helped to make it one of the few exciting contests in an unusually quiet primary election.

Throughout his years of service he has borne the reputation of being both efficient and honest and has made many friends throughout the county.

His opponents for the primaries April 11 are Dr. Donald Cook of Elkhart, Wis., who although new to Lake county politics is making an earnest campaign and is expected to be an important contender, and Lester Tiffany of North Chicago.

The excitement centering around the coroner nomination is the more noteworthy in that this is the first time in 44 years that there has been much of a contest for the office in Lake county.

Since he was first elected in 1906, Dr. John Taylor of Libertyville has filled the office of coroner. The doctor, who is retiring from the competition for his present term, is believed to have set himself up as a record holder.

"Times That Try Men's Souls"

Many times in the past the United States has faced a crisis—and come through it triumphantly. Two periods comparable to the present that come to mind are the Revolutionary War and Civil War. Of the first, Thomas Paine wrote, "These are the times that try men's souls," and during the "War Between the States" that sentiment was echoed.

The future of the United States has never been absolutely secure—just as there is nothing else in life that is ever absolutely secure, but only comparatively so.

At the present time when people are following with their hearts and souls the progress of the struggle in which we are now engaged, it is sometimes difficult for them to fix their thoughts on the everyday things of life. Even elections of national-wide importance are regarded with relative apathy.

Occasionally we make the mistake of thinking that the affairs of our government, in their various aspects, are unimportant in conjunction with the war—and that the war is unimportant in relationship with our government.

However, this may not be true. If so, it behooves us to consider with greater, rather than less, seriousness the coming elections.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I: The story of the famous 19th and 7th Bombardment Groups, of Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz and his Fortress crew in the tremendous air campaign that saved the day for the United Nations in the Southwest Pacific. Lieut. Kurtz, who was pilot of the old Fortress, known as "The Swallow," which escaped from Clark Field, in the Philippines, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck. He pedals to the wreck of Old 99, finds eight of his crew lying in an irregular line.

CHAPTER II: Lieut. Kurtz tells how orders to camouflage Old 99 were countermanded; instead they were to load bombs. Then he was ordered to jettison the bombs, reload with cameras and rush the camouflage. Preparations made for taking pictures of Fortresses. Someone shouts, "Look at that pretty navy formation." The "navy formation" happens to be a flight of Jap planes.

CHAPTER III: Bombs hit the mess hall. The Japs move off. They hear another huge explosion. They think, but they prove to be Zeros coming in from the direction of Corregidor. The boys duck back into their foxholes.

CHAPTER IV: The pilots are given their targets and towering above the group is Colin Kelly, about to head out on his first mission. Buzz Wagner is chased by Japs in his P-40. He meets Lieut. Russ Church and they bomb a Jap field. Church falls to return. The death of Colin Kelly.

CHAPTER V: Fortresses are kept in the air to save them from the Japs. Through some mistake someone opens fire on them. Japs begin photographing the place. No longer safe to sleep in the barracks, cots are moved into a corn field. With no fighters left to defend them, evacuation begins. Lieut. Kurtz tells of last plane trip out in a patched-up plane. Japs land light tanks at Agaña. Squadron commander Major Gibbs falls to return from mission. U. S. forces flee from Clark Field to Manila.

CHAPTER VI: Navigator Harry Schreiber tells of a fight with Zeros in which Shorty Wheeler takes part. lands in a rice paddy and is surrounded by Filipinos. The crew buys an outrigger canoe and sail to the Isle of Panay. Later they take off for Australia.

CHAPTER VII: Lieut. Kurtz takes up the story again. He describes the hot, dry Christmas in Australia, and how U. S. fliers spent it. A report comes in over CW radio. It was from Schreiber saying he'd be after dark. On third trip over, Kurtz sees tremendous concentration of ships, makes bomb run. Jap fighters come up. "Bombs away!"

CHAPTER VIII: Bombardier says they had caught Japs flat-footed. At Malang Field boys are briefed before dawn, told about big concentration of Jap ships N.E. of Borneo. They take off, but hit a frightful fog. Cannot see plane right ahead. Coming out of fog they see a huge black cloud resembling tornado. It was the Dutch burning their Borneo oil.

CHAPTER IX

"I finally decide to give it that thousand, and if I get back, let them jerk the wreck and put in a new one. With that extra thousand now, maybe I can get over the target—we're about to begin our bomb runs—and bag a cruiser, which is a good trade for a ruined airplane motor."

"Meanwhile Jim has been pulling ahead of me as I limp along, and now he is calling:

"Connally to Kurtz."

"Kurtz answering Connally," I say.

"Got enough gas, Frank?"

"Plenty of gas, Jim. Which is a lie. I've got only just enough, but I'm determined to get over that target. I've got a motor out, and I wish you could slow down and stay with me. I realized later, of course, that this was asking a lot of Jim, but I didn't realize it at the time."

"Now we're approaching the exact position of the target, and I begin to realize the predicament I'm in. Because if I lose another motor on the same side, I'll have little chance of getting this plane home. And also, sitting above this thin layer overcast I wonder when I will first see the Jap fighters pushing up through its surface, maybe boring their way almost straight up through it, hanging by their props, or maybe coming out of it leaping like a school of dolphins."

"Or when we go down through it—as we may have to—to find our targets—will they be sitting right under it, waiting to pick us off?"

"All the time Jim's doing his best to stay with me, but I continue to fall back. And just then Harris, my bombardier, peering down through the broken overcast, calls 'Target ahead.' I'm glued to the PDI needle now, but when my bombardier starts to make his run and the bomb-bay doors come open, their extra drag on the air slows me down still more and I fall further behind. Jim as I trim the ship both to compensate for those open doors and to keep the wing which carries that limping engine from falling. The plane continues to yaw to the left, and it's hard flying. Both my co-pilot and I are very tired."

"Then over my earphones Jim is calling: 'Bombs away, Frank—I'm turning off the target, and far ahead I can see the sun glint on his up-cocked wing as he heads for home. But I'm still on the PDI needle, my bombardier has picked up a beautiful target—a gang of transports and a cruiser down through the overcast, the sea is laced with their curving wakes as they try to get away—but he can't seem to hold any one of them in his sights long enough to make a good run."

"Finally Harris, in desperation, pleads over the interphones, 'Frank, I just can't hang onto that cruiser—let's turn east.'"

"And I soon know why, because my co-pilot, raising up to peer over the side, tells me we are quartering across the wakes of hundreds of ships. It's a long line of Jap transports moving in pairs, and convoyed by cruisers and destroyers."

"Can you just hold it, Frank?" pleads Harris over the interphones. "Just hold it, and we'll hang out one in just a second!"

"And then Jim Connally, 'For God's sake, drop your bombs and come on, Frank!' I can see Jim in the distance, getting smaller and smaller."

"What did we do to the target? Probably plenty, but we didn't claim anything. Seeing through that overcast layer was like looking down through a net curtain with big gobs of cotton clinging to it—now you see the target and now you don't."

"Harris, the bombardier, peering down from the navigator's compartment, couldn't see anything when his bomb train hit the surface. But the tub gunner, peering straight down from the belly of the ship, swears he saw one of them go smack down for a direct hit on a Jap cruiser. But since only one of them saw it, we couldn't in fairness claim it, no matter how much I'd like to hand the credit to Harris."

"With my limping motor, I could sit back and really begin to worry. I tried to level off, but of course I couldn't. I knew we were somewhere over Borneo by now. The altimeter showed we were 24,000 feet high, and in spite of everything I was doing we were dropping 100 feet lower every minute. I thought of landing on the camouflaged field here on Borneo but we might be too low even to bail out if we nosed down through this dense weather and couldn't find the field at once. "Now dropping 100 feet a minute, if you can keep it from falling no faster than that, at the end of the first hour you'll be down to 18,000; the second hour, 12,000; the third hour, 6,000. So you see how it is. 'If you've got gas enough for four hours you've got barely enough altitude to make it back to Java,' I argued with myself."

"But it was going to be tough on the other boys. We'd been on oxygen for four hours, and ordinarily after a fight in the high air, which is a strain on everyone, the first thing you do is bring her down to 12,000 so everyone can take off his mask and relax. Only I had to hang onto my precious altitude, and it would be another two hours before we had flutered down to 12,000."

"But it seemed it was the only thing to do, so I told my navigator, Walt Seamon, to set a course for Malang Field. Then it was up to me. I tried every trick in the book and a few I'd heard of to keep that rate of fall from rising, because if it went to 200 or 300 feet a minute only for a few minutes I knew we'd lose the plane. The automatic pilot was out (a little gadget had busted, and of course we had no spare parts), so my co-pilot and I had to do all the flying, worn-out as we were, but at least we didn't have to keep stations on any other plane now, or have the nightmare of maybe crashing into someone else."

"Then suddenly we had a breather, for the clouds vanished behind us and we were floating free out into the abyss of a cloud canyon—the same old one. Peering down, I seemed to see the gray wisps of that canyon's bottom practically trailing on the dull-green jungle-clad mountains far below. I doubt if there was even a thousand feet of ceiling, so we kept on our course. When we finally cleared the weather—we were out over the Java Sea south of Borneo—we were so far out that I realized we'd passed the point of no return. The only way we could go on now was towards Java, which was the nearest land."

"The field at Surabaya was a little closer than Malang, but I was afraid of its short runway, so with what gas and altitude we had left, we decided to try for Malang, but as we approached the mountain pass we could see the weather was settling down tighter and tighter on us, and looking ahead, I got afraid that when we got on up into the pass, the cloud ceiling might push us right down onto the pass floor, and I'd spill all the boys out into a rice paddy in that fog. I could see the crew was anxious, too. I hadn't needed to tell them much of the fix we were in; they hadn't missed a trick."

"So then I took my last decision. Rather than nose on into that pass and use up my last gas trying to see what the weather there was really like (it turned out later it was terrible), I turned and headed back toward Surabaya Field while I still had contact flying, and while I had gas and altitude enough to get in. (Which means while we could still see the ground.)"

"When I finally saw Surabaya Field we had less than 1,000 feet of altitude left and I didn't dare think how little gas. So I didn't try to circle—just dropped my wheels, asked for the wing flaps, and set her down on that short runway, and could be thankful the Japs had left me my hydraulics so that my brakes would stop me on that macadam strip."

"We taxied into our revetment and I got Colonel Edbank on the telephone at Malang. He was most anxious; I was the only one he'd heard from. I could only tell him what I thought were the results of the mission. It turned out later that the other planes had all come down at Kendari and Samarinda."

"He told me to take my crew and stay overnight at the hotel in Surabaya and come back to Malang the next morning. It was the first time we'd seen the big beautiful sea."

port metropolis of Java except from the air—months since we'd seen any big city. Here were stores, and glittering bars, movie houses, and the picturesque natives and the Dutch—a pageant of the Far East. But we were tired beyond any words I have to tell, from those eleven and a half hours in the air. The longest mission I'd ever flown. The manager of this big hotel wanted to make a big occasion of it. It was the first time they had seen the uniforms of those American aviators who were going to save Java. But after what we'd seen that day down through the mist, I wasn't so sure we would do it. There had to be more of us—and soon. So we told him no, thanks, no party. We all wanted to tumble into bed. We had an early alert scheduled to check the ship for our return to Malang."

"We soon got our first reinforcements," Frank Kurtz continued. "They were Fortresses of the brand-new E model. We'd heard them talked of in the States but I'd never seen one. There were many improvements, but most vital of all were the new tail guns. The old D model which I flew had been almost defenseless there; if a Zero came in directly on your tail, you had to depend on the cross fire put out from the plane flying next you on your wing. If you were alone you were a goner."

"The boys who flew these new E's were old friends of ours, the 7th Bombardment Group—friendly rivals in the Air Corps to our 19th Group. We'd competed with them at maneuvers and in practice bombing at Muroc Lake back home."

"But in January the reinforcements were a little thin trickle of the thousand planes we hoped for. Of course they were then terribly short of seasoned pilots, and often quickly trained kids were flying them, and cracking them up all across Africa and Asia. But it was all they had to send us. Sometimes six would start out from Tampa Field and maybe two would arrive at Malang. During the whole month of January we got only half a dozen."

"We were in the old 7th, which came out to reinforce you," said Master Sergeant Charles T. Reeves, the bombardier. He had been sitting beside the pilot, under the plane's wing."

"So was I," said Master Sergeant Rowland A. Boone, the gunner, who sat next to him."

"On the day of Pearl Harbor, the 7th was sitting on Hamilton Field, California—poised, waiting for one new plane to come off the Boeing assembly line before we took off across the Pacific for Manila. Of course the big news from Hawaii canceled that trip. We'd have to go around the world another way."

"Then they put me to work ferrying E's from the factory to Sacramento," continued the Gunner. "I was picking them right off the assembly line, two or three a day. It would have been wonderful if we could have had that many in Java. But the bottleneck then was pilots—the planes were all stacked up waiting for them, and no matter how fast you build Fortresses, you can't jerk a kid out of a Beechcraft trainer and put him in a Boeing. And by the way, when we got back to the States this summer, the bottleneck was still pilots. They still had several dozen E's stacked up on the factory field, waiting for men to fly them."

"I'll never forget my first look at the E-model Fortress. She had that big dorsal fin, and she looked a lot bigger—more deadly, too. Because not only were there tail guns, but much better side guns. And a whole stack of power turrets. On the old D model, the angle of fire from the radio guns and the belly guns had been very small, but this was corrected in the E, and the top turret was a honey!"

"It doesn't hurt to talk about the D model, because the enemy have captured plenty of them. It's no more secret than the Model T Ford. But in those days the E was a surprise package—like the new F model is now."

"And when something is really new, the combat boys who have to take it up don't want it blabbed around. For instance when we were still out East, a copy of an American magazine arrived which gave a complete diagram of the E. It showed everything—the angle of fire of every gun, even the break in the fire angles for the propellers. There weren't many blind spots on the E where an enemy fighter can sneak in, but this diagram showed every one."

"Our gang talked over that damned picture for days. 'Holy Smokes!' we said, 'why don't they give the Japanese a set of blueprints!' In addition, it showed the exact position of every man on the plane, so the Japs could work in through the blind spots and pick us off."

"It was all stuff we knew the Japanese didn't know, because all the E's we had lost up to then had either dropped in the ocean or burned after beaching. 'My God' the other gunners said. 'They're selling us out back home. They might just as well take the guns off the plane and let the Japs shoot us down!' That picture knocked our morale for days."

"But what the hell! Now the F model is out—nobody knows the exact improvements on that yet, and when the enemy fighters hit the F, they'll find out they've picked up a real hot potato."

"Let's get back to the trip over," said the Bombardier. "In my plane we left the States December 28. I'd had a blue Christmas—missed dinner because we were out testing guns—but didn't mind much, because we were itching to get over and into it."

"As we were approaching Brazil we ran into a hell of a front, couldn't get over it so our navigator could take sun shots and find out our position, weren't sure where in hell we were. My pilot, Captain Duane Skiles, first went up to 15,000, but there wasn't a break. Then he went back down through it, staying just 100 feet above the Atlantic. We hoped we were headed right for our field at Belem, but we didn't know. Finally I called to him over the interphones and said that in my old geography book, it said you could see the line where the yellow Amazon mixed into the blue Atlantic as far as four hundred miles out to sea—maybe he could pick this up and follow it in."

"Sure enough, we found this line between yellow and blue. But we were farther out to sea than we'd figured. By the time we hit shore, we were plenty low on gas and an hour overdue. It was getting dark, and there are no lights in that jungle—now and then you'd see a glint of a native with a torch down there. We couldn't pick up Belem, and we had just twenty minutes' gas left."

PROGRESS—Record attendance in Church School was broken last Sunday with eighty-nine present. We hope to reach a hundred by Easter.

About sixteen students of seventh and eighth grades are enthusiastically at work on the church catechism in preparation for confirmation which will take place in June.

About ninety were in attendance at the eleven o'clock worship service, setting a record high for regular service for the past three years.

About forty young people attended the initial meeting of the Youth Fellowship Recreation period last Thursday evening. All young people of high school age and up are welcome.

PASSION WEEK—Next Sunday is Palm Sunday. At the morning service we will dedicate children to the Lord in baptism. Those wishing to participate in this service please communicate with the pastor. Services will be held at 7:30 each evening during Passion week except Saturday evening. On Good Friday evening we will hold our annual "Lighted Cross Communion Service." We invite all, regardless of race or creed to join us in this service.

Easter Sunday we will receive a group of new members into the church. Those who wish to unite with us either by transfer or confession of faith please make necessary arrangements.

Waukegan Pharmacist Is Candidate for 8th Dist. Senatorial Nomination

From farm boy to pharmacist is the career of Albert E. Nordstrom, candidate for the Republican nomination for state senator from the Eighth district.

Nordstrom, now owner of two drug stores in Waukegan, has worked as a pharmacist in the other two county seats of the three counties in the district, Belvidere and Woodstock.

He was born in Waukegan, attending grade and high schools there, and is a graduate of Illinois university (class of 1924).

He states that if elected, he pledges "fair-minded representation for farmer, worker and business man, with favoritism for none and an honest effort to serve the residents of Lake, McHenry and Boone counties to the best of his ability."

News of the boys

haven't had any flying as yet, so I don't have much news. I had over 60 hours' flying time at Primary, but I think Basic is the toughest part of our training, so I'll really have to work hard."

Cpl. Robert Gross left last week Wednesday to return to Indian-town Gap, Pa., after spending a 10-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gross. "Bob" called at the News office while home and observed, "There's nothing like good old Antioch," and also expressed thanks for receiving the paper.

A gorgeous South Seas scene is pictured on the stationery Pfc. William Effinger uses to send greetings from San Diego, Calif. "The paper keeps me informed on the men in service and also keeps me up to date on the news of Antioch."

The co-operation of the men and women in the service, and of their families, is being sought by the Antioch News and the Antioch American Legion post in keeping addresses for the mailing list up-to-date. Since newspapers are second class mail, they do not receive the same preference in forwarding that letters do, hence it is particularly desirable that addresses be kept as accurate as possible.

Greetings were received recently from Pfc. William J. Overton, U. S. Marine corps, San Diego, Calif. "Bill" is working in the photo shop there.

SGT. HENRY NEUHAUS IS KEPT BUSY IN LOUISIANA

Maneuvers are occupying the attention of Sgt. Henry D. Neuhaus, at Camp Livingston, La.—

"You remember the soldier who came to your office last fall, when on furlough, to talk to you and thank you for the many things, including sending me your paper, that you have done for the boys in the service."

"May I again thank you? Only this noon I received the Antioch News, and I always love to read it. Mail has had a hard time catching up with me, but sooner or later I will get most of them."

"I have been transferred again, this time to a different outfit. My old outfit sent out a noncom cadre, as soon as the maneuvers in Louisiana for this outfit were over, to form and build up a new outfit. I am on this cadre, and my duty will be as motor sergeant."

"Having been to a motor school at Long Island, N. Y., I was temporarily transferred to the field artillery here at Camp Livingston. I am sure I won't stay here very long and soon you will get a card from me telling of my whereabouts. I hope I will 'stay put' a little while."

"There is one thing I am sorry about. I wish I could have gone with my old outfit, even if I should have had to sacrifice the promotion I received lately."

"This weather reminds me a lot of a summer day at Rock Lake Highlands."

"Have been wanting to write to Mr. Klass. I guess he is next on my list."

"I see by the paper the wonderful job the people back home are doing—speaking of the Antioch War Bond drive and the results. It shows how much they are backing up the boys on the front lines, bless them all!"

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Hull Outlines U. S. Foreign Policy, Emphasizes International Cooperation; Nazis Surrendering Ukraine Foothold; Congress Studies Simplified Tax Form

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Burma—In Burma even children smoke, so Pfc. Wayne Martin, Los Angeles, Calif., passes cigarettes out to young natives as U. S. troops enter Kachin.

FOREIGN POLICY: Outlined by Hull

The concern of Americans in the light of the diplomatic jockeying in Europe, U. S. foreign policy was outlined by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, with emphasis on world political and economic cooperation.

Said Hull: "Some international agency must be created which can—by force, if necessary—keep the peace among nations in the future."

Political differences which present a threat to the peace of the world should be submitted to agencies which would use the remedies of discussion, negotiation, conciliation and good offices. . . . Disputes of a legal character . . . should be adjudicated by an international court of justice.

After calling for abolition of stifling world trade barriers, Hull declared for stabilizing currencies for the smooth flow of goods and services, and offering financial assistance to countries to enable them to obtain resources for maintaining their business and agricultural life.

RUSSIA:

Near Hungary

Falling back under the advance of Russian armies, Nazi troops retreated to the long shadows of the Carpathian mountains in Hungary, guarding central Europe, while farther to the southeast, other German forces were surrendering their last foothold on the rich mineral and farm land of the Ukraine.

In backing up to the Carpathians, the Germans abandoned additional territory in prewar Poland, while their withdrawal to the southeast brought the Russians closer to the Rumanian border, from which the population was being evacuated.

The Nazis' remaining foothold in the Ukraine was being steadily loosened as the Russians slashed deeply into their lines all along this front, threatening the German units with encirclement from the rear.

TAX FORMS:

Plan Simplification

The nation's 50,000,000 taxpayers who heroically tussled with this year's income tax form won't have to do battle again in 1945, if congress acts favorably on Rep. Robert Doughton's legislation for simplified tax payments.

Under Doughton's plan, 30 million Americans earning less than $5,000 yearly in wages and salaries would simply file a copy of their withholding receipt, and the treasury then would figure whether they owed more taxes or were entitled to a refund. People receiving less than $5,000 in wages and salaries but more than $100 in other income would file a simplified statement.

The present normal and surtax would be combined into a new surtax and raised to 20 per cent of the first $2,000 of taxable income, and although the victory tax would be abolished, a new normal tax of 3 per cent would be imposed on net income over $500. All exemptions would be set at $500 per person.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

GUARDS: Members of the Coast Guard Temporary Reserve, an organization established by the navy to guard factories, are being mustered out. Civilian patrolmen will protect the plants in the future.

SHOTGUN SHELLS: The WPB may release about 26,000,000 shotgun shells for sale to civilians early in April, according to information obtained by Senator Maybank.

FOOD:

Can't Feed World

Declaring that the U. S. cannot be the food basket of the world, War Food Administrator Marvin Jones said that other Allied nations will have to provide a major share of postwar relief in distressed countries.

Although U. S. food supplies are adequate for civilians and services, Jones said, our exportable surplus in proportion to the Allies' total amounts to 7 per cent of the wheat, grain and flour; one-fourth of the fats and edible oils; one-third of the meat, fish and rice; and a little more of canned fish, dried fruits, and of peas and beans.

The nation's foreign relief contributions chiefly will be made up of dry beans and peas, cereals, soy products and minimum amounts of animal proteins and concentrates, Jones said.

More stress will have to be placed on dirt crops at home, Jones said, because short feed supplies will cut livestock levels.

Crop Acreage

Only in oats, rice and sorghums will War Food administration goals for 1944 be equalled or exceeded, the department of agriculture declared, with soybeans, peanuts, corn, wheat, barley, flaxseed, potatoes, sweet potatoes, dry beans and peas, tobacco, hay and sugar beets likely to fall below the mark.

Unless the weather is unusually favorable, the wheat crop may not exceed 750 million bushels against 836 million in 1943, USDA said, while 3,126,000,000 bushels of corn should be harvested if yields equal the 1939-'42 average. Potato output should drop to 410,000,000 bushels compared with the record 464,000,000 of last year.

"There seems to be a general fear that there will be an inadequate supply of labor needed during short periods for harvesting certain crops which are dependent on seasonal labor," the USDA said.

EUROPE:

Invasion Moves

While the British ordered England's south invasion coast closed and Allied bombers continued to hammer German industry and defenses, Adolf Hitler moved with his customary suddenness in establishing direct Nazi control over Hungary in preparation for the big Allied offensive against the continent.

Hitler's action was designed to incorporate Hungary economically and militarily into the German wehrmacht as Rumania and Bulgaria already have been, so as to provide a common pool of resources and men for use against invading armies in the Balkans.

In closing the English invasion coast, the British sealed off territory facing France and the Lowlands on the south, and Norway and Denmark on the east, prospective second front sites.

Meanwhile, bitter action raged around the Cassino foothills for the key to the road to Rome, and fighting fluctuated at the Anzio beach-head to the northwest.

PACIFIC:

Action Widespread

From the Marshall Islands to Burma, the whole Pacific front was aflame, with Allied forces pounding against the Japs' stubborn outer defenses.

In mid-Pacific, U. S. battleships and bombers plastered the enemy's isolated holdings in the eastern Marshalls, while farther to the southeast, U. S. army fliers ripped Jap shipping moving troops and supplies along the New Guinea coast for fighting in the rugged country around Madang.

With one side and then the other trying to hold off the other before the rainy monsoon season sets in in Burma, Allied troops launched an air-borne offensive behind Jap lines in the north, but the enemy struck back with a full scale offensive to the south, aimed at snapping U. S. and British supply lines radiating from India.

SHIPYARD FRAUD:

FBI Nips Scheme

It still takes a long, long step to keep ahead of the FBI.

Charged with falsifying work records so as to draw higher pay, 34 employees of the Bethlehem Steel company's Sparrows Point, Md., shipyard were arrested by the FBI and accused of defrauding the government of sums amounting to a million dollars yearly.

Allegedly in operation for five years, the scheme involved welders, who were said to have paid the men checking their work $1 or more per day for altering the records, enabling some to make as much as $15 extra per day.

More than 700 welders allegedly were involved at the shipyards, where total employment exceeds 8,000, and 24 tankers and cargo ships were turned out last year.

LOCKER PLANTS:

Increase Use

Due to an expected expansion of 25 per cent in war gardens this year, a 10 per cent increase in frozen food locker plant capacity for 1944 is foreseen.

So widespread has become use of the locker plant, operators predict a 50 per cent expansion in facilities during the five years following the war, with increasing use in big cities.

Originally designed as a rural service with 80 per cent in communities of 5,000 population or less, locker plants are most numerous in the Midwest, though their popularity has spread to New England, the South and Far West.

Business-Finance

Mail Order

Because of shortages of merchandise, Montgomery Ward & Co., Inc., America's No. 2 mail order house, was unable to fill orders for $105,000,000 in 1943. Cost to the company for handling the orders, moreover, approximated $8,000,000, contributing to the decline in earnings for the year to $20,677,098. Average number of employees is 78,000.

Rails

Ordinarily a small item in peacetime, special freight rates to the government on goods moving over land granted to the railroads may cut the rails' wartime earnings from 300 to 500 million dollars, Union Pacific President William M. Jeffers said. Preval of such rates is being sought.

Renegotiation

Stating that contractors whose war orders had been cancelled by the government have received no more than 10 per cent of their settlement claims and some have waited over a year for action, a senate subcommittee pressed for legislation granting contractors immediate financial assistance up to 90 per cent of their claims to provide working capital for other production.

EUROPEAN RELIEF:

Ask Food Shipments

Long opposed by the British because it would relieve the blockade girdling Axis Europe, plans for feeding the needy of occupied countries were pushed forward in Washington, D. C., with a house committee's recommendation that the U. S. undertake the task under supervision of neutral powers.

Similar to a proposal already approved by the senate, the house plan sponsored by Rep. Fish (N. Y.) asked that the Swiss and Swedish governments and the International Red Cross be requested to supervise shipments and distribution of food in France, Belgium, Poland, Greece, Czechoslovakia, Norway, the Netherlands and Yugoslavia so that none shall fall in German hands.

Citing such relief to Greece last year, Fish said the U. S. state department certified the successful operation of the plan, without benefit to Germany.

VACATION GAS

Winter vacationists who drove to Florida resorts and now are unable to obtain gasoline to return to their homes cannot expect assistance by appealing to Chester Bowles. The head of the Office of Price Administration curtly refused to overrule Florida rationing boards. War needs must come first, he said.

"We simply do not have enough gasoline to earmark any of it for driving to and from vacation resorts, if we are to meet these needs," Mr. Bowles stated.

Rough Handling

Nearly all sweet potato storage diseases can be traced to rough handling at harvest time.

Barn Feeding

During the barn feeding period, feed little or no grain to high testing breeds producing less than 15 pounds and to low testing breeds producing less than 20 pounds of milk daily, but feed all the hay and silage the animals will eat.

Store in Dry Room

Be sure to store honey in a place that is dry and fairly warm. Don't put honey in the ice box. Low temperatures may make the honey crystallize and become cloudy.

THE LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

How this rich farm land fits into the picture of tomorrow

Located in the heart of the most productive agricultural section in America, this area of Northern Illinois is noted for its farm diversification.

Here are thousands of rich dairy farms that supply the great Chicago milk shed. Here are poultry farms that have grown in size and number to help meet America's wartime needs. Here, too, are farm-lands where hogs, cattle and sheep thrive...where grain and produce grow in abundance.

In addition to the advantages nature bestowed, this agricultural region has many favorable economic factors. It is the largest packing center and the greatest grain and livestock market in the world, the hub of the nation's transportation and a financial center.

Here are electric power plants of vast capacity for extending the benefits of electricity to the farmer and for processing agricultural products.

Yes, Chicago and Northern Illinois is a rich agricultural center, today. And it is tomorrow's Land of Opportunity—not only for the farmer, but for the worker and the industrialist as well.

A Letter from Joe ...

ANSWER IT WITH WAR BONDS!

WHILE your boy is away fighting, he's not only growing up into a man who will be glad to take his place beside you on the farm when he gets back. He's getting used to first class equipment—learning how to handle guns and machinery and jeeps. He isn't going to be pleased with run-down farm buildings and worn-out equipment. He's going to know what's what—and it's going to be up to you to see that the farm comes up to scratch.

Right now, War Bonds are helping to provide our boys with that fine fighting equipment, and thereby hastening the day of Victory. But afterward, you get $4 back for every $3 you put in, if the Bonds are held to maturity. And you can use it for all the things you'll be needing. Put it into new buildings and fences, new stock and maybe a home with modern comforts—and that super-duper tractor!

On farms and ranches all over the country, far-sighted owners and tenants are keeping careful track of places where money will have to be spent when the war is over. Against these future expenses they are salting away their dollars in War Bonds. It's the safest, easiest kind of postwar planning. The safest, because Uncle Sam stands behind them. The easiest, because you can get large or small denomination Bonds to suit your needs, at your bank, post office or Production Credit Association. Between trips to town you can order through your rural mail carrier, or write direct for them yourself.

But, however you buy, keep right on buying them!

YOU NEVER GET LESS THAN YOU LEND! And you can get  $\frac{1}{3}$  more than you invest. When held 10 years, Series E War Bonds yield 2.9% interest compounded semi-annually. You get back \$4 for every \$3.

Of course, no one should cash a Bond unless he has to; but if an emergency comes along, Uncle Sam will redeem them in cash—at full purchase price—any time after you've held them 60 days. Don't hold back a single dollar unnecessarily from the purchase of War Bonds. YOUR HELP IS NEEDED TO WIN THIS WAR.

FACTS ABOUT WAR BONDS (Series E)

You LEND Uncle Sam:	Upon Maturity you get back:
$18.75	$25.00
37.50	50.00
75.00	100.00
375.00	500.00
750.00	1000.00

You can buy War Bonds from your bank, postmaster, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association. Don't wait. Do it by mail if you can't get to town!

For America's future, for your future, for your children's future—keep on buying WAR BONDS
